

Publications Intern

Mental Health America is seeking a journalism/communications student for an internship in its busy publications department. Responsibilities include various writing projects for print and online publications, editing, proofreading, trafficking and administrative duties. Successful candidates will have excellent writing, copy editing and organizational skills. General knowledge of mental health issues and desktop publishing software a plus. Intern is expected to work 2-3 days per week with a minimum of 10 hours/week; hours are flexible. This internship is unpaid. To apply, send resume, cover letter and two writing samples to Bridget Toland at btoland@mentalhealthamerica.net.